Elk Point will remember them

The Royal Canadian Legion Local 151 of Elk Point extends an invitation to the town of Elk Point and community organizations to join the Remembrance Day Parade on November 11, 1988.

This parade will form up in front of the Co op store at 10:40 a.m.. Take off will start at 10:45 a.m. and will proceed to the Cenotaph beside the Pioneer Circle Center.

The ceremony at the Cenotaph will commence just before 11:00 a.m., and will be followed by an interdenominational service in the Pioneer Circle. Lunch will be served at the conclusion of the service.

ROADS TO THE FUTURE—Henri Hetu, Regional Transportation Director for northeast Alberta, outlines plans for future construction at the NADC conference in Slave Lake.

Infrastructure aid announced

Programs which will offer financial aid for street upgrading and future planning were announced at the Northern Alberta Development Council's Northern Infrastructure Seminar in Slave Lake last week, but little hope was offered for highways in this area in the immediate future.

A six year extension of the Municipal Streets Assistance grant was a welcome announcement, as was a new Safe Streets Program which is expected to go into the 1989-90 provincial budget, to provide $5 per capita funding for towns toward street lighting, improved signage and crosswalks. A maintenance grant for airports is also a distinct possibility for 1989.

Elk Point Town Administrator Pat Vincent, who attended the conference, told Town Council Monday night that NADC Executive Director Rick Sloan had indicated that 90 percent of the consultant fees would be available if the Town wishes to upgrade their Community Impact Assessment. Vincent also indicated that the Town may be able to recoup up to 75 percent of the cost of the portions of the Municipal Servicing Plan which deal with water and sewer, through a grant. No assistance is available for obtaining water for the golf course under the PFRA or drought assistance programs, however, Vincent said.

Little hope for widening of Highway 41 or completion of the upgrading on Secondary Highway 646 was brought forth at the seminar. Henri Hetu, Regional Director of Alberta Transportation and Utilities, St. Paul, who spoke in an open forum on road networks of northeast Alberta, said that budget constraints have caused Highway 41 to be delayed for the present, while Secondary 646 was put on the back burner because it was not high on the County of St. Paul's priority list for road development.

The contract for base course paving of Highway 36 from Highway 28 to west of Goodfish Lake has been awarded, with work to take place next spring, while Highway 55 will be paved in four sections as funding permits, Hetu said.

Election poll shows most undecided

By Brenda Romanchuk
St. Paul Journal

An opinion poll conducted by several weekly newspapers indicate it could be a relatively close race as to who becomes the first MP for the new Beaver River Riding. There was only a four point spread between the two candidates leading in this poll, John Dahmer of the Progressive Conservative Party and Ernie Sehn of the Liberal Party. That small margin, combined with 145 of the voters polled claiming to be undecided, makes it impossible to forecast who will be the victor for this riding on November 21 in federal election.

A total of 494 possible voters from the riding were questioned in the poll, which was conducted between October 27 and November 04. Of those, 145 were undecided. The remaining 349 people polled divided their support as follows: John Dahmer, Progressive Conservative Party of Canada - 141; Ernie Sehn, Liberal Party of Canada - 111; Brian Luther, New Democratic Party - 72; Deborah Grey, Reform Party of Canada - 25; Les Johnston, Confederation of Regions Party of Canada - 0.

Although no measure of the poll's accuracy is given, it is considered to be a scientifically representative sample by professional pollsters. The poll was conducted on a roughly proportional basis, with 100 people or more polled in larger population centres, and between 50 and 60 polled in smaller centres.

People polled in the St. Paul/Elk Point region were the most changeable in the Beaver River Riding. One hundred people were questioned and almost half (47) were still undecided as to which candidate they will cast their vote for. Dahmer led those decided with the support of 22, followed of Sehn (19), Luther (11), Grey (1), and Johnston (0).

The poll was coordinated by Jim Bentein, publisher of the Grand Centre/Cold Lake Sun. It was conducted by seven newspapers throughout the Beaver River Riding, including the Grand Centre/Cold Lake Sun, the Bonnyville Nouvelle, the St. Paul Journal and Lakeland (Elk Point) Review, the Lac La Biche Post, the Smoky Lake Signal, and the Redwater Tribune.

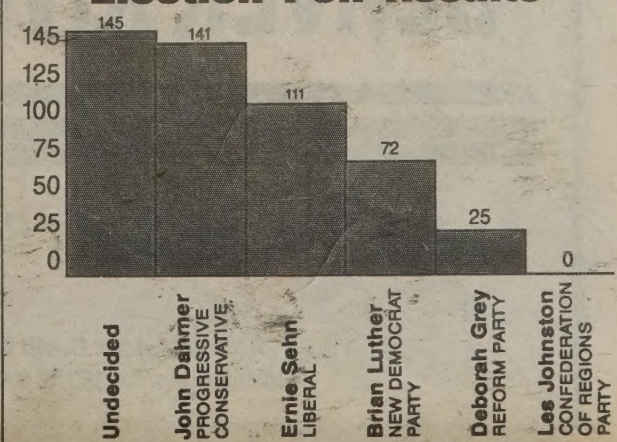

Election day is less than two weeks away and all candidates are campaigning with renewed vigour. The Progressive Conservative Party has a setback in their campaign with the Tory candidate, John Dahmer, still hospitalized. Dahmer is now entering his second week as a patient at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton.

With the large number of undecided voters in the riding these last few days of campaigning will be crucial. All indications are that it will be a close race on November 21.

Election Poll Results

CRAFTS APLENTY—such as these handtooled leather items created by John Rosychuk, were for sale at the Heritage Lodge Tea.

Lodge tea a success

Elk Point Heritage Lodge held their annual Fall Tea and Bake Sale last Saturday, with a huge crowd on hand to make short work of tables loaded with baked goods, handicrafts and white elephant items before sitting down to enjoy their tea and goodies.

A number of draws were made at the end of the afternoon, with Doris Capjack winning the fruit basket, Catherine Poleschuk and Karen Norman winning food hampers, Isabel Myshaniuk the 50-50 draw, Bill Schuhmacher a bedspread, Paul Dacyk a snack set, Joe Molnar the Chiclet contest and Ethel Whitlock the cake. Congratulations to all the winners!

The Heritage Lodge Auxiliary, who sponsored the event, extends their most heartfelt thanks to all the donors for the raffles, bake and craft tables, and also to all those who supported this very successful event with their presence.

THE SALE IS ON—and baked goods disappear rapidly before a large crowd of waiting shoppers at the Heritage Lodge tea and bake sale.

Minister of Transportation and Utilities Hon. Al 'Boomer' Adair explained that the province's 'main purpose in life' is to 'protect what we've got' while funding is short, and that the highest priorities in the area of primary highways are the Trans Canada, Yellowhead and Highway 63. Adair noted that an extra $10 million was put toward secondary highway construction this year.

The three day seminar, which was attended by delegates from all over the northern portion of the province, discussed the role of infrastructure in the development of energy, agriculture and forestry resources, as well as on tourism, retail and service sectors, and community life. A series of workshops focused on water and sewer programs, telephones, electrical and gas co-ops, regional utility services, transportation and roads.

Small attendance at Chamber meeting

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce held their first meeting of November last Wednesday, with only eight members on hand.

Business dealt with was also rather sparse, with several matters still in the planning stages.

Billie Milholland and Vicki Brooker will represent the Chamber at the Lakeland Tourist Association Annual Meeting in Lloydminster on November 19, with any other interested members urged to contact Lise Langevin at 645-2913 for tickets if they wish to attend. The meeting is scheduled for 4:00 p.m. that afternoon at the Wayside Inn, with a dinner and social evening to follow. High on the agenda will be the consideration of dividing the Lakeland zone into five sub-zones, each with four directors, for marketing purposes. If this plan is accepted, the Association's executive will be chosen from the 20 resulting directors.

A report on the Health Care Connection medical interchange was given. Attendance at the Calgary gathering was poor, due to a blizzard in that city, but Town Administrator Pat Vincent said a large number of students, many with their spouses, attended the Edmonton Connection, and a good amount of interest in Elk Point was forthcoming.

St. Paul Chamber of Commerce has invited the Elk Point Chamber members to attend a series of entrepreneurial workshops they are co-sponsoring with the Alberta Chamber of Commerce. Anyone interested in workshops on Identifying Business Opportunities (Nov. 19, full day), Buying a Franchise (Dec. 3, full day) or Writing A Business Plan (4 evenings, starting Nov. 16) is invited to contact Morley Christie at 645-6230 (days) or 645-5340 (evenings).

A meeting is being set up between representatives of the Chamber, the Town, and Trade and Commerce Magazine to discuss possibilities for a supplement on Elk Point.

Historical Society President Frank Mayner reported that he attended the first planning session for Fort George-Buckingham House development. A package explaining the development is being put together for promotion of the project in other communities in the area. Mayner also expressed a hope that the mural will be installed in its park in the near future, with a brief coffee-and-doughnuts celebration to mark the occasion, and an official opening next spring when the park is developed as well.

Get well wishes are extended to Sid Holthe, a longtime and valued member of the Chamber who is hospitalized in Edmonton.

CURL CANADA CLINIC--at Elk Point Curling Club was very well attended, with novice and more experienced curlers taking a full day to learn the techniques of throwing and sweeping the weighty granite orbs down the ice toward the waiting broom.

Scouts to attend jamboree

The 1st Elk Point Scouting Association is pleased to announce that Dean Berg, David McNamara, and Darren Pilisko have been chosen to go to the Canadian Jamboree in Prince Edward Island next July.

This will be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for our Scouts. It is anticipated that there will be 12,000 Scouts, Venturers and Scout leaders in attendance.

We will be holding special fundraisers between now and next June to cover the expenses of the Scouts so they may attend. Should you wish to make a special donation to the Jamboree Fund, please send it to Scouts Canada 1st Elk Point Group-Jamboree Fund, General Delivery, Elk Point.

We wish to thank the Elk Point Elks for their generous donation to send our Scouts to PEI.

We shall remember

With forty three years of peace behind us, the memories of the years at war are growing dim. It is only once a year that we pause to reflect on the men and women who put their lives on the line to give us the freedom we continue to enjoy.

made fruitcake to the boys at the front.

It was gore and guts and glory. It was bone-chilling cold, buzz bombs and boredom. It was short rations, censored letters to loved ones, and a lot of making do. It was hell.

During two world wars, Canadians slogged through muddy battlefields, dodged enemy battleships in the stormy Atlantic, shot down enemy aircraft before they themselves were shot down, nursed the wounded, issued uniforms and provisions, waded through piles of paperwork, peeled mountains of potatoes, rolled miles of bandages, and sent handknit socks and home-

All we do in return, for those who did so much, is to spend a few minutes per year placing wreaths at a stone monument in a windswept park, as the Last Post shivers in the November air. It seems so little, so insignificant a gesture, toward those who fought so hard for peace.

We must not forget. We must never forget.

GIANT GOOSE—On our way to Drumheller and Brooks, we stopped at Hanna, to examine the giant wild goose in their park, while down below a number of wild geese swam in a small lake. Aline, Mel and the dog think it's great.

Flanders Fields

*In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.*

*We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie,
In Flanders fields.*

*Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

Too many trails...

By Irene Magnusson

Have you ever felt as though you're not sure where you live anymore? I seem to be getting that feeling with all the travelling around lately. And on top of that, when I got home yesterday, there was still snow all over my yard, the only place I saw such evidence of coming winter - except on the mountain tops of the Rockies.

In the first place, there was the trip to Ottawa and Montreal, and other points East, taken in September, and you heard about that to some extent - there is always much more one can recall. Back home, and getting in the rest of the garden stuff, storing and readying everything I could for winter, noticing the state of the harvest, all these important fall activities, with time out for a good long look at the glorious wonders of our own Alberta autumn blaze of colors.

Somehow a special patch of gold hung over my yard, long after most of the surrounding forests had lost their glow - I said it was for my family who were coming from the city for Thanksgiving, and they did appreciate it, the kids playing in the fresh fallen leaves, flinging balls and darts and small airplanes into the endless blue, and watching the flakes of gold sift down.

Next day, after they had gone, all the leaves fell, like an old coat, and I was left the raking and bagging to do by myself. (Perhaps I should mention the afternoon, only three or four hours of a day, when I drove alone to the little string of lakes over East, Whitney, Laurier, Ross, where the reflections were like melted butter on the blue waters, blue sky, white clouds, sparkles dancing on the little waves, the parks and beaches as empty as central Sahara, except for me and a few gulls.)

The next few days were spent commuting between home and Bonnyville, where I learned how to be "Fully Alive," (even while aging) in Bonnyville, and raked leaves in my yard while at home.

Friday morning, No. 1 son, Mel, phones. They'll be here Saturday and do I want to go to Brooks and points south with them? Of course, I want to go to Brooks, and so they came and visited and I got ready and off we went, bright and early, on Monday morning, planning to spend a few hours visiting the Tyrell Museum at Drumheller on our way south.

The law of averages said that that was the very day the powers that be shifted over to the fall and winter schedule, meaning the Museum will be closed on that and future Mondays, until spring. So we missed the interior of the Museum, with its dinosaurs and bones, but we did ramble the hills of Drumheller, looked at the phoney plastic (or cement) critters from the distant past scattered through the hills and rocks of prehistoric ages, had lunch, bought a couple of souvenirs, then went down to inspect the little "Hoodooos" of East Coulee.

The wife and mother of the family we were visiting in Brooks has been ill a long time, and had been five or six weeks in Hospital, a lovely, lively young woman struck down by a lingering rare illness, the daughter of my cousin Dick Hobden, whom some of you may remember. We talked long hours with her family, and sat long hours in the 10th floor room in the Foothills Hospital with her, as she labored out her last days. Her spunk and determination should have been better rewarded.

Since we could not stay in either place continuously, we passed the hours with a trip to Dinosaur Provincial Park, where we admired the tame deer, and climbed the fascinating hodge-podge of rocks and hoodoos, values and mounds, walked along the river, then drove up to the massive old brown bones under their canopy of glass, marveling as we always do, at the immensity of the creatures who once roamed our now tame and eroding prairie lands.

On another day we drove south and east to Medicine Hat, and down through the Cypress Hills, and south again to the U.S. - Canada border. On our way a number of pronghorns crossed the road ahead of us, perhaps fifty or more, leaping the fences or crawling between the wires in a frenzy to escape the most dreaded enemy - Man. A few stood on a hill crest, possibly young ones, and watched us pass. Impossible to feature anyone actually hunting and shooting those graceful little creatures, yet there was an open season for hunters, we were told.

At Havre, Montana, we visited with my husband's cousins, who, at our phone call, had gathered as many together as they could, so we could see them all in a short space of time, most thoughtful, and we had a very nice few hours with them, before the long five-hour drive back to Brooks.

The next day, we went again to Calgary, the two and a half hour drive seeming shorter after several trips. Again we sat the few hours allowed with Sylvia, and I thought of those days and hours on that same floor in 1977, with my daughter Pat, and those dialysis machines, and the broad view of the city from the 10th floor TV room. At last she slept, and we left, knowing we would not see her again. She will be buried tomorrow.

Home, late in the wind-torn night, almost too tired to know I was in my own bed again. A day to catch up on mail, and family doings, a birthday party, news exchanged. Mel and Aline left Sunday morning. I stored the roto-tiller, the hoses, lawnmower, other garden tools, and picked a handful of tough, still-colorful flowers from the garden. The week ahead seemed filled with things I must do.

Early Monday morning, the phone again. It was my nephew John, in B.C. My sister has died in the night. Will I pass the word to so and so and so? Of course I will, and did. I can't go, I'm thinking, how can I arrange all this, so soon, tomorrow or tomorrow? I'm so tired, need to be at home, to renew myself, to hide...

But I knew I could do it, and so I did, all the arranging, phoning, hurrying, and awoke in the morning with the ground white and bright under a full moon. The long drive to the airport, the short flight to Vancouver, the four-hour wait for the second half of the flight, arriving in Port Hardy at dusk, but a familiar face awaiting me at the airport. Still more miles to drive, ending with the ferry that took us from Pt. McNeill to Sointula, and the arms of my family there.

We stood together on the soft green grass of the cemetery, under the blue sky, while the minister spoke, and read the beautiful Eulogy written by my sister's son, and listened to the song of love he sang, heaps of flowers piled around the gleaming white casket, and far overhead, the gulls.

Home again now, after those many miles, I will see my sister's resting place in my mind whenever I wish, and the family around. It was a long journey - but not a wasted one.

What's news... at the Library

On Halloween night about 35 goblins swooped into the library to receive their treats.

We have a little beige (stuffed) rabbit and a doll with pink hair visiting in the library, would the owners please pick them up. They are lonesome!

Watch for our "Book Fair" on November 17, 18 and 19. A wide variety of books will be available for purchase. This will be a great opportunity to pick up some of those Christmas gifts.

Elk Point Library will be sponsoring a children's author visit during Canadian Children's Book Festival. Edmontonian Gwen Molnar, author of "I Said To Sam" will be visiting the Elk Point Elementary School on November 23, 1988. Pre-school children are invited to attend in the school auditorium at 10:15 a.m. Chairs available for adults only. A door prize entry sheet called "The Marigold Moose," is available at the library for pre-schoolers to pick up and colour.

NEW BOOKS

Just in time for Christmas shopping for 1988, "The 1989 Toy Report" from Canadian Toy Testing Council. It rates the most popular up-to-date toys, plus childrens age related to toys and tells you if this is a good buy.

"A Century of Trains" by Basil Cooper - This book takes the reader from the days of the carriage foot-warmer and the luncheon basket to the air-conditioned coach and the micro-wave oven for on train catering. "Share the Flame" by Alan Hobson - The official retrospective of the Olympic Torch relay. For 88 days in the winter of 1987-1988, the Olympic flame was carried across Canada, passed proudly from runner to runner in the longest Olympic relay ever. A well illustrated book.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our warmest thanks for the heart-felt caring from relatives, friends and neighbors for the many cards, phone calls and food expressed during the loss of our Dear Sister, PAULINE CHUBEY.

Sincerely,
Bill & Olga Seniuk

In Memoriam

In memory of a loving father and grandfather who shall never be forgotten who was laid to rest on this day, Nov. 14, 1982.

John C. Zarowny

We have only your memory, dear Dad

To remember our whole lives through But the sweetness will linger forever As we treasure the image of you.

Your smiling way and pleasant face Are a pleasure to recall, You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all. Someday we know not when, To clasp your hand in the better land, Never to part again.

You're not forgotten, Dad Nor ever shall you be: As long as life and memory last We shall remember thee.

Sadly missed and loved ever so much.

Your family.

GOOD LUCK ELK POINT --- KEEP ON TRYING

money. Fortunately, you have incentive to tackle anything now. Roll up sleeves!

Libra (Sept 23-Oct 22)

You have a whirlaway quality this week. Try to rely on yourself. Stay calm. You have a mellow feeling of confidence with positive vibrations. Aim for power and self-control. "To everything there is a season, a time to every purpose."

Scorpio (Oct. 22-Nov 21)

Mystery, glamour, intrigue is the offering this week. An individual very much attracted to you will be a nuisance. A gift represents a genuine token of affection. Health is good in November so celebrate, enjoy everything coming your way.

Sagittarius (Nov 22-Dec 21)

Pre-election fever is high now. Watch for double talk. Don't be touchy with loved ones. "To be or not to be." Some family rumblings and grumblings are bound to be upsetting. Work has become demanding but dream the long winter nites away, star!

Capricorn (Dec 22-Jan 19)

This week is much like last week. All may not be sweetness and light on the home front. A new addition to the family! Try a little tender loving care and patience. You are right on target. You can't afford to be impractical now. Play and enjoy. Champagne anyone?

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb 18)

Listen carefully! Don't let a close relationship take second place to any wild schemes. Keep an open mind. Everything has its ups and downs. You may not want to commit yourself just yet. Streamline work methods, weed out unnecessary clutter. Plan!

Pisces (Feb 19-Mar 20)

Storm clouds roll away and you can see a bright picture ahead. Keep conversation light and your mind on business tonight. Keep your wits about you. You are bubbling with plans of a wedding. Take time to mingle and help. Decide what is important?

Misunderstandings and minor upheavals could well be the order of the new week of November. The middle of the month will bring calm quite substantially. "Gentlemen start your engines!" could be the best description of November. Its a month when you feel yourself all revved up and ready to go but wait for the green flag to drop. Control your impatience, be ready for a false start. Happy Birthday to all born in November!

Aries (Mar 21-Apr 19)

Emphasis on innovation, originality, willingness to lead rather than follow. When it seems that you can't quite get what you want, don't react by drawing into a shell. Privacy will only take you further away from reality. Restlessness is boring.

Taurus (Apr 20-May 20)

Words and ideas will help you make the breakthrough you're looking for. Be grateful! Compromise might not be easy, but its necessary if you are going to get along with others. A sunny disposition always helps. Work can take on a new dimension.

Gemini (May 21-Jun 20)

You can't afford to be adventurous this month. Your spending habits were a little heavy. You win some, you lose some! An original approach to money concerns would be wise. Sometimes when the road is rough, you've just got to grit your teeth and go!

Cancer (Jun 21-Jul 22)

Good intentions are lost without communication. That nagging feeling that you have taken a wrong turn on life's road can't be handled without advice. Friendship and love are important. Leave the worldly glory to someone else. Don't promise anything.

Leo (Jul 23-Aug 22)

Routine grates on your nerves though you're in a good frame of mind. Keep smiling! It can be tricky to deal with loved ones. Don't isolate yourself. Silence is more brass than gold. "Faith is love taking the form of aspiration" Expect a slow week.

Virgo (Aug 23-Sept 22)

Emphasize diplomacy, patience, tolerance. Share your knowledge. Highlight music, flowers, romance. Go out there and charm the wings off the birds! I see you in a turmoil over

Ken and Gladys Wacowich on Free Trade:

Ken Wacowich has been a rancher all of his life. Gladys Wacowich is vice-chairman of The Alberta Cattle Commission. They are parents. Here are some of their views on free trade.

Q: Ken, as a rancher, what do you think the biggest benefit of free trade will be?

A: The freedom to cross the U.S. Border, exchanging our cattle back and forth.

Q: Gladys, how important is free trade to Alberta's cattle industry?

A: The U.S. has shown signs of becoming increasingly protectionist. If they closed the door to our beef cattle or any agricultural products, it could be serious for us.

Free trade will keep the door open. We can produce, process and manufacture our products here in Canada and ship them to the vast U.S. consumer market. This will create not only farm jobs for Albertans, but also jobs in manufacturing.

Q: How will free trade affect your children?

A: Free trade will help create jobs for our kids, jobs right here in Alberta.

Alberta Federal Liberal Party candidate for Beaver River

By Diane Bellerive
Staff Writer

Ernie Sehn has been interested in Federal politics for many years. Going back to the days, when his grandfather was an immigrant in this country and was active politically in Saskatchewan, back in the "Tommy Douglas Days". He worked with Les Benjamin who then was trying to get into provincial politics and is now a Federal M.P., who according to Sehn, became disillusioned with Socialist and NDP policy.

Sehn said that he ran into a situation that also disillusioned him in that government. When he was younger and working for a large farmer in the area, they were building a house on the large farmer's property, when it came time to go home and they needed a driver to drive a Volkswagen home. He was the only one that didn't have a vehicle, so he took it home even though he did not have a driver's licence, and became involved in an accident. At that time, in Saskatchewan, $5 was your licence fee and your insurance, the same insurance applying to everybody. What happened, however, was the government insurance agent advised Sehn's father that since the farmer was one of his biggest clients, they would sue Sehn, but not defend him. They were going to defend the big guy, but not the little guy. Sehn did see a lawyer and the lawsuit never did proceed. It was that attitude, where supposedly everyone is treated equal under the program, but is not so in reality, that disillusioned Sehn's father and himself from the NDP or Socialist programs. His attitude about socialist policies is that it looks great on paper but try and make it work. To him, it's almost impossible.

Ernie Sehn

"Problem is, too many times you make people equal, and take away people's individual incentives, it takes away all those things that makes us different and life exciting," Sehn said, "And that's why I started becoming more interested in the Liberal Party where things are more middle of the road. Free enterprise works because people want to be individuals and not to be motivated to proceed, or advance, and you do it whether or not it is 'free enterprise' philosophy or not."

One of his biggest concerns is that in our society, we tend to go from one end of the pendulum to the other, forgetting that the safest place to be is in the middle, "That's why I'm sympathetic to the liberal philosophy and why I'm involved now," Sehn said.

Sehn has been school trustee for nine years and his work as an educator gave him the experience of working with the public. His two years as president of the Alberta School Trustees heightened his interest in politics.

"We have something so unique here, that we have to preserve, because literally, we are the only global nation in existence that has the potential to trade, now because with our multicultural, multilingual society, we respect the individual, we encourage the individual, we took our multilingual background and used that to become the global traders of the future. There is no other country that can do that," said Sehn. "Besides we have a reputation for peace, which is rare among most countries, and we have the resources to become global traders," he said.

"We have to respect the fact that the aboriginal people were here first, and work with them, not to them or for them," Sehn said when asked about the aboriginal rights. "It's a total disgrace for Joe Clark and Brian Mulroney to cry about what's happening in South Africa, and not address what is happening with our own aboriginal people," said Sehn.

On the Meech Lake accord, Sehn believes you can't have it both ways. "Either you are for the Canadian reality which is historically and legally bilingual, with multiculturalism supportive and encouraging legal status or you aren't," he said.

"We need a 'made in Canada' energy price for Canadians," Sehn said when asked how he would suggest stabilizing the oil price. "Also, we need a floor price to protect the producing provinces. We have no choice but to face the problem. We have to set the prices, not the Americans, and if they don't want to buy our oil, fine, we will find someone else to buy our supplies," said Sehn.

When asked about what the Liberal party can do for farmers that are facing financial trouble, Sehn said, "We have to encourage the family farm, not the corporate farm. We do this through debt reduction, a change in subsidies, through research and development, so that the farmer can have a variety of crops, so that if the price falls, he has an alternate. The Tories are saying they will give you loans or retrain you for something else. In reality, a fourth generation farmer, does not want to train for anything else, he wants to farm, and this should be encouraged," Sehn said.

Sehn is not too concerned about bringing new business into the area, more so about making the existing small businesses thrive. He believes, that by making the tax laws more fair, and taking away all the government red tape that the small businesses go through in order to survive, then with encouragement, and then leaving the business alone so they can build themselves up.

While Sehn could not offer a specific alternative to the free trade deal, he said Canada can expand its trade to the Pacific rim because of Canada's resources, reputation and multiculturalism.

When asked about pensions, Sehn stated that the seniors are the bread and butter of our country, and we have to look after them. As for family allowances, those who need it should receive it but those that don't, should not. "There's no doubt about it, we are going to have to go to a means test, due to our huge deficit. We cannot afford to mortgage the future of our young."

Sehn who is 45 years old, is married with three children and is the Director of Human Service Programs at the Alberta Vocational Centre in Lac La Biche.

Littlechild at Blue Quills

By Brenda Romanchuk
Staff Writer

"It's been a tough campaign," stated Willie Littlechild, Progressive Conservative Party candidate for the Wetaskiwin Constituency. Littlechild took time from his own campaigning to lend a hand to hospitalized Beaver River Riding PC candidate, John Dahmer, by speaking to political science students at Blue Quills Post-secondary school.

Littlechild felt similarities between the two constituencies enabled him to speak effectively on Dahmer's behalf, regarding issues concerning voters in this election. He feels it is unfortunate that free trade has overshadowed all the other issues, such as environment, job creation and programs for seniors.

Asked about the recent dollar value decline, Littlechild stated, "The potentiality of the free trade agreement not coming about is causing the dollar to go down." He felt this was a result of latest polls favouring the Liberals.

This is Littlechild's first federal election campaign though he has many years of political involvement.

Political Forum at Mallaig

By Diane Bellerive
Staff Writer

Students, parents and teachers were able to meet some of the candidates in the Beaver River Riding, on Thursday, at a Forum at the Ecole Mallaig Community School.

Addressing the audience, was Ernie Sehn of the Liberal party, Brian Luther of the New Democratic Party, and Deborah Grey Candidate of the Reform Party. John Dahmer, Tory Candidate, declined the invitation to debate, as he feels that door to door campaigns are more effective than debates. Les Johnson of the Federal Regional Party, also declined the invitation because present funding will not allow him to attend.

Students were placed in the audience with pencils and papers to allow the audience to write down their questions. Ed Jobs and Victor Robert, teachers at the school, went through the written questions and presented the questions to the candidates during question period.

The candidates were chosen to speak for opening address by a predetermined draw. Candidate, Deborah Grey spoke first, on how the reform party was created in October of 1987 by a group of people who saw the need to create a new political vehicle, to help Canadians achieve constitutional and economic equality within the confederation. Their leader is Preston Manning, who according to Grey, is a man of integrity and vision.

The second speaker was Ernie Sehn who expounded the Liberal Party Policy, a middle of the road policy, which favours free enterprise and which believes that people come before the business sector. Sehn said that the Liberal Government is one that demonstrates leadership with vision. He believes that multilingual, and multiethnic Canadians can truly become the global traders of tomorrow.

The third speaker was Brian Luther, who spoke on the free trade deal which he believes will make Canada a dependent nation, without its own culture. He also believes it will cost tens of thousands of ordinary Canadians their jobs and mean cutbacks to the social programs. He thinks it well mean an end to Canada, as we know it. Luther believes that his party, the NDP, is the only party that consistently adhere to their policies and to spell out exactly what programs proposed will cost, and where the money will come from.

The questions asked were: 1. How will free trade affect prairie farmers, and will it help small businesses?

Grey responded saying that "subsidies are killing the government. If the subsidies are gone then farms will come back to life."

Sehn responded that "If we go with free trade, it is a bad deal. As for the farmers, it will affect the price of gas, and other commodities. Also, how can Canadian farmers compete with the southern areas of the American States, that produce two crops a year."

Luther stated, that "He believes that free trade will severely handicap our ability to diversity in Alberta." He said that Canadians cannot compete with the huge American farms which produce almost as much as the Canadian market does in a single year.

2. How do the candidates feel about abortion? Sehn and Grey stated that they were both pro-life candidates. Luther states that his government would reduce the amount of abortions per year. He said there were two sides to the issue, and it must be examined carefully.

3. Can you give some specific examples how pension plans, unemployment programs, etc. will be affected by free trade?

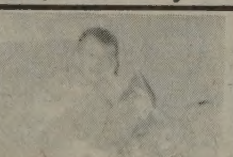

Luther replied, that no one knows what will happen, whether or not the government will try to reduce costs by removing these programs. He also stated that it should be known before we enter a free trade deal.

Sehn said the reality is if we want these programs we should put it in writing, right into the text of the free trade agreement.

Grey responded by saying, that her concern about these social programs are that the previous governments have spent so much money and are so far in debt, that, that is what is going to kill the social programs.

The Candidates then gave their concluding remarks and met with members of the audience, staff, and students. An interesting and enlightening day.

Clandonald news

By Shirley Osinchuk

The Soccer Club held its wind-up on Oct. 17. After a potluck supper the teams lined up for picture taking. Unfortunately, not all the players could be present. An appreciation award was presented to Lubie Parchewsky for her time and efforts given to the club. Special thanks was also given to Sharon Convey. Soccer will be underway again, first thing in the spring.

The October special event at Clandonald School was "Teacher Look-alike Day." At noon, all the students converged in the gym. There were many versions of all members of the staff on the gym floor, and all the others watching from the stage. A few props, a little make-up, and just the right colour of clothes turned students into the teachers they admired. "Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery."

The November special event will be to design a spinning top, to be shown on Nov. 24 at noon. Students will be receiving instructions at school.

The annual Landonville Halloween Party was held on Thur. Oct. 27, in the Landonville Hall, ten miles north of Clandonald. Halloween colours and pictures decorated the hall, games were in progress and many little costumed characters had a good time.

The 1987/88 school year awards were presented at St. Jerome's on Oct. 28. Our congratulations to the Clandonald students who received recognition for outstanding work. Honour pins were earned by Tammy DeFord (Grade 10), Janice DeFord, Jennifer Kurash, Carla McNamara (Grade 11), and Phillip Lawrence and Tami Rewuski (Grade 12).

Janice DeFord also place second in the Grade 11 matriculation program and won the Religious Studies award. Jennifer Kurash received the Typing 30 award.

The Rutherford Scholarship was earned by Tami Rewuski for Grades 10 and 11, and by Phillip Lawrence for the three years. Phillip also placed first in Math, Biology, Physics, and tied for first in Chemistry, as well as being awarded the ATA Scholarship and Governor General's Medal. Tami received a school crest for interschool basketball, and Phillip received one for volleyball.

Carol Lawrence was voted by last year's Grade 11 class, to be the one to receive the Service to Others Award, and chosen by the teachers to receive the Spirit of St. Jerome's Award.

Back at Clandonald school on Nov. 2, the winning intramural volleyball team was set to show their skill against the school staff. The student team was made up of: Joanne Simonet, Shawn Simonet, Jason Bar- doel, Keri Braithewait, Mark Cusack, Brent Martin and Yvonne Bar- doel.

The staff, plus one talented and one enthusiastic but "untalented" im- port, let the students win the first two games 15 to 11 each game. The third game they beat the students 15 to 12. Too bad that third game didn't count.

Remember these dates: Nov. 17, Fish and Game meeting; Mon. Nov. 21, Friendship centre Bingo; Mon. Nov. 28, Ag Society Annual Meeting. It was announced that missionaries would be speaking at the Bible Fellowship Church in December but a late date change made that incorrect. Charlotte and Anders Jonnson were there on Oct. 30.

SPECIAL THANKS—from the Soccer Club went to Lubie Parchewsky and Sharon Convey for their assistance.

Can parents make a difference

By Colleen MacDougall

Family Life Program/North Eastern Alberta Health Unit

Most of us would probably agree that parents play the most important role in the sexuality education of their children. Yet, it may seem discouraging when, despite feeling that we have done our best, our child grows up to become one of the increasing number of teen parents. What can be said for how much we as parents can really do to prevent this from happening?

First, it is important for us to have confidence in the fact that we can make a difference! In regard to being a major source of information, although the majority of parents even today do not talk openly and consistently with their children about sexuality, when they do, their children tend to follow more traditional norms later in their premarital sexual relationships. Furthermore, the greater the number of sexual topics discussed by parents, the less likely are the children in their adolescent years to have intercourse.

Lastly, in terms of parents' influence on a teen's sexual behavior, the relation between parent-teen discussions and postponement of intercourse or use of contraception is true only for girls. What are we telling our boys?

A good argument, however, is that children need more than information to be able to make informed decisions. They also need a lot of support in forming values and attitudes which will serve to guide them in making decisions that are right for them, not ones based on pressure or on the standards of others. Research has indicated that parents can be effective in helping their youth to form such a base for decision-making. It has been found that although children begin questioning much of their earlier learning when they become teens, the basic elements of that learning remain essentially unchanged. For example, teens who are sexually abstinent tell us that although they too may want to have sex and do what is popular and exciting, their parents' influence is a major reason why they are abstinent.

Considering our potential influence, then, on our child/teen's sexual knowledge, attitudes, and behavior, it is clear that parents can make a difference! However, to do this and to be effective (since an effect is made in all cases - whether positive or negative), we will need to cast off any misconceptions or inhibitions we may be holding over from the Victorian era and get in touch with sexual issues facing the teens of the 80's and 90's. We will need to discard the old myth that "what they don't know won't hurt them" and learn to respond to the demands from our youth for information and guidance. Finally, probably most basic is our need to first come to grips with our own sexuality. Only then will we be able to share in the healthy development of our children's.

If you are a parent who would like some help in getting the conversation going in your home, please do call me at the St. Paul Health Unit office (645-3396) or call your local office and ask to speak with a community health nurse. Workshops on parent-child/teen communication are also available upon request.
